THE FURY ★

Alex Michaelides

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR
EDITOR'S CHOICE #3

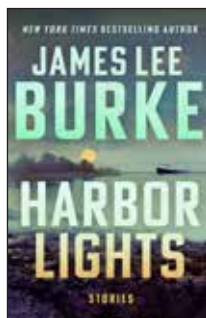

This is a tale of murder. Or maybe that's not quite true. At its heart, it's a love story, isn't it? Lana Farrar is one of the most famous women in the world. Every year, she invites her closest friends to her private Greek island. You may think you know this story. It had all the necessary ingredients for a press sensation: a celebrity, a private island, and a murder. We found ourselves trapped there overnight. What followed was a game of cat and mouse — a battle of wits building to an unforgettable climax. The night ended in violence and death, as one of us was found murdered. My name is Elliot Chase, and I'm going to tell you a story unlike any you've ever heard.

HARBOR LIGHTS

James Lee Burke

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR
EDITOR'S CHOICE #5

"These impressive stories establish that Burke doesn't need a whodunit plot to catch a reader's attention." — Publishers Weekly

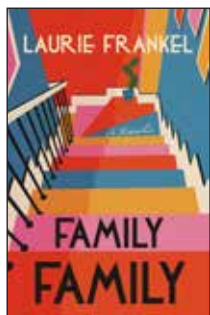

A boy and his father watch a German submarine sink an oil tanker as evil forces try to ruin their family. A girl is beaten up outside a bar as her father navigates new love and threats from a group of neo-Nazis. A pair of undercover union organizers are hired to break colts for a Hollywood actor, whose "Western hero" façade hides darkness. An oil rig worker witnesses an attack on a local village while on a job in South America and seeks justice through one final act of bravery. With his nuanced characters, lyrical prose, and ability to write shocking violence in the most evocative settings, James Lee Burke's singular skills are on display in this superb anthology.

FAMILY FAMILY ★

A NOVEL

Laurie Frankel

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR
EDITOR'S CHOICE #7

"[T]he novel is dedicated to the premise that not every adoption story is one of trauma . . . Full of warmth, humor, and sound advice."
— Kirkus Reviews

India Allwood grew up wanting to be an actress. But while promoting a film about adoption, India does what you should never do — she tells a journalist the truth: it's a bad movie. Like so many movies about adoption, it tells only one story, a tragic one. But India's an adoptive mom herself and knows there's so much more to her family than tragedy. Soon she's at the center of a media storm. Her daughter Fig knows they need help — and who better to call for help than family? Because India's not just an adoptive mom. She also had a baby she gave up for adoption her senior year of high school. It turns out the hallmark of true family is this: it's complicated.

YOU ONLY CALL WHEN YOU'RE IN TROUBLE ★

A NOVEL

Stephen McCauley

"Another chronicle of modern disappointments and their occasional consolations from a master of the modern social novel."
— Kirkus Reviews

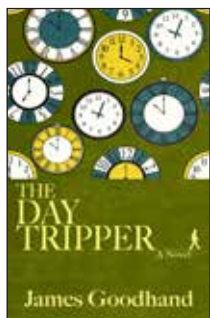

After a lifetime of taking care of his sister and niece, Tom is ready to put himself first. An architect specializing in tiny houses, he finally has an opportunity to build his masterpiece. Assuming, that is, he can keep the demands of his family at bay. Naturally, that's when his phone rings. His niece, Cecily, is embroiled in a Title IX investigation at the college where she teaches that threatens her career and relationship. And after decades of lying, his sister wants to tell Cecily the real identity of her father. Tom does what he's always done — answers the call. Thus begins a journey that will change everyone's life.

THE DAY TRIPPER

A NOVEL

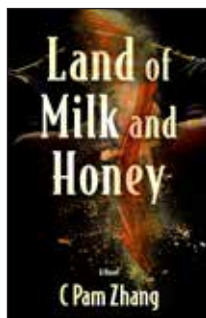

James Goodhand

It's 1995, and Alex Dean has all the time in the world. That is, until a brutal encounter sees him almost drowning in the Thames. He wakes the next day to find he's in a room he's never seen before, with no idea how he got there. A glimpse in the mirror tells him he's much older, his features ravaged by time and poor decisions. He snatches a newspaper and finds it's 2010 — fifteen years since the fight. Alex wakes the following morning to find it's now 2019. But the next day, it's 1999. Alex must navigate through the years to learn that small actions have untold impact. And that might be all he needs to save the people he loves and, equally importantly, himself.

THE VULNERABLES ★★ ★

A NOVEL

Sigrid Nunez

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR
INDIE NEXT PICK
NATIONAL BOOK AWARD-WINNING AUTHOR

"Funny and thoughtful . . . Nunez manages to make a story of mortality go down easy." — Publishers Weekly Elegy plus comedy is the only way to express how we live in the world today, says a character in Sigrid Nunez's ninth novel. The Vulnerables offers a meditation on our contemporary era, as a female narrator asks what it means to be alive at this moment in history and considers how our present reality affects the way a person looks back on her past. Humor, to be sure, is a priceless refuge. Equally vital is connection with others, who here include an adrift member of Gen Z and a parrot named Eureka. A search for understanding about some of the most critical matters of our time, Nunez's new novel is also an inquiry into the nature and purpose of writing itself.

THE SEPTEMBER HOUSE ★★

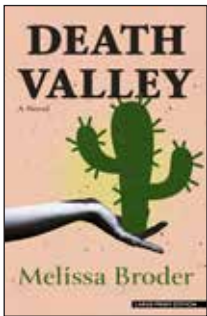

Carissa Orlando
INDIE NEXT PICK

"The metaphor is layered and at times heartbreaking, as secrets held by both a house and a family come to light with terrifying poignancy in this wonderfully eerie debut." — starred, Library Journal

When Margaret and her husband Hal bought the large Victorian house on Hawthorn Street they couldn't believe they finally had a home of their own. Then they discovered the hauntings. Every September, the walls drip blood. The ghosts of former inhabitants appear, and all of them are terrified of something that lurks in the basement. After four years Hal can't take it anymore, and he leaves abruptly. Now, he's not returning calls, and their daughter Katherine — who knows nothing about the hauntings — arrives, intent on looking for her missing father. To make things worse, the hauntings grow more harrowing, because there are some secrets the house needs to keep.

Melissa Broder

INDIE NEXT PICK
LIBRARYREADS PICK

"As wise in its way as any spiritualism about vision quests or finding enlightenment... A 100 percent Broder take on grief and empathy: embodied but cerebral, hilarious but heart-wrenching." — Kirkus Reviews

A woman arrives alone at a Best Western seeking respite from an emptiness that plagues her. She has fled to the California high desert to escape a cloud of sorrow — for both her father in the ICU and a husband whose illness is worsening. What the motel provides, however, is not peace but a path, thanks to a receptionist who recommends a nearby hike. Out on the trail, the woman encounters a towering cactus whose size and shape mean it should not exist in California. Yet the cactus is there, with a gash through its side that beckons like a familiar door. So she enters it. What awaits her inside sets her on a journey at once desolate and rich, hilarious and poignant.

"This hard sci-fi thriller is full of cinematic and wild suspense and would be great for fans of Andy Weir." — starred, Library Journal

Jay Gardiner has given himself a fool's errand — to find the remains of his deceased father in the Pacific Ocean off the coast of Monterey Beach. He feels it's the only way for him to lift the weight of guilt he has carried since his dad's death by suicide the previous year. The dive begins well enough, but the sudden appearance of a giant squid puts Jay in very real jeopardy, made infinitely worse by the arrival of a sperm whale looking to feed. Suddenly, Jay is caught in the squid's tentacles and drawn into the whale's mouth. He quickly realizes he has only one hour before his oxygen tanks run out — one hour to defeat his demons and escape the belly of a whale.

THE FRIENDSHIP CLUB

A NOVEL

Robyn Carr

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR
EDITOR'S CHOICE #2

Celebrity cooking show host Marni McGuire has been married — twice. Now in her mid 50s, she's single. Happily so. She just needs to convince her pregnant daughter, Bella, of this fact. Similarly single, Marni's best friend and colleague is confident she's content without a man, but both women soon find themselves leading by example as the young intern on their show appears caught in a toxic relationship — and Bella reveals her own marriage maybe isn't built to withstand the stresses of the baby on the way. The realities of modern love are far from easy, but there's no better group to have in your corner than friends who will hold fast in the face of any storm.

Mary Balogh

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR
EDITOR'S CHOICE #4

"The incorporation of a differently abled protagonist into the love plot without a savior narrative or magical transformation makes for a welcome departure from the genre's tradition of pairing romance with normative bodies." — Kirkus Reviews

Left unable to walk by a childhood illness, Lady Jennifer, sister of the Duke of Wilby, has grown up to make a happy place for herself in society. But she secretly dreams of marriage and children, and of walking — and dancing. When Ben Ellis comes across Lady Jennifer as she struggles to walk with the aid of crutches, he instantly understands her yearning. He is a fixer. It is often said that he never saw a problem he did not have to solve. He wants to help her, but he must be careful. A duke's sister certainly cannot marry the bastard son of an earl. Except sometimes, love can find a way.

Daisy Goodwin

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

"[Goodwin] vividly evokes mid-century celebrity culture in Maria's encounters with Richard Burton, Grace Kelly, Marilyn Monroe, and others. Readers will enjoy stepping into the heels of the famous opera performer." — Publishers Weekly

In the world of opera, Maria Callas was known simply as la divina: the divine one. But her fame was hard won, raised in Nazi-occupied Greece by a mother who mercilessly exploited her voice. When she met the fabulously rich Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, she believed she'd found someone who saw the woman within the legendary soprano. She fell desperately in love. He introduced her to a life of luxury, showering her with jewels and sojourns in the most fashionable international watering holes. And then suddenly, it was over. The press announced that Aristotle Onassis would marry former First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy, leaving Maria to pick up the pieces.

Safiya Sinclair
INDIE NEXT PICK
READ WITH JENNA PICK
INDIE NEXT PICK
"Sinclair's gorgeous prose is rife with glimmering details, and the narrative's ending lands as both inevitable and surprising. More than catharsis; this is memoir as liberation."
— starred, Kirkus Reviews

Throughout her childhood, Safiya Sinclair's father, a militant adherent to a strict sect of Rastafari, became obsessed with her purity, in particular the threat of what Rastas call Babylon, the corrupting influences of the Western world. The women in her family were made to wear long dresses, head wraps, no make-up, no jewelry, no opinions, no friends. Safiya's mother nonetheless gave Safiya the gift of books, to which Safiya latched on for dear life. And as Safiya watched her mother struggle under the rigidity of her father's beliefs, she increasingly used her education as a tool with which to find her voice and break free.

A MEMOIR OF MY FORMER SELF ★★

A LIFE IN WRITING

Hilary Mantel

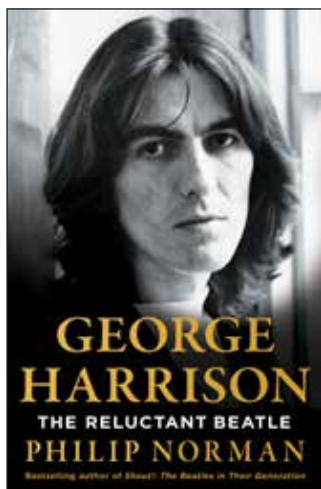

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

"Shrewd, humane, and deeply engaging pieces." — Kirkus Reviews

In addition to her career as a novelist, Hilary Mantel contributed for years to newspapers and journals, unspooling stories from her own life and illuminating the world as she found it. A Memoir of My Former Self collects the finest of this writing over four decades. Her subjects are wide-ranging, sharply observed, and beautifully rendered. From her unusual childhood to her all-consuming interest in Thomas Cromwell that grew into the Wolf Hall trilogy, A Memoir of My Former Self reveals the shape of Hilary Mantel's life in her own words. Filled with wit and wisdom, it is essential reading from one of our greatest writers.

GEORGE HARRISON ★

THE RELUCTANT BEATLE

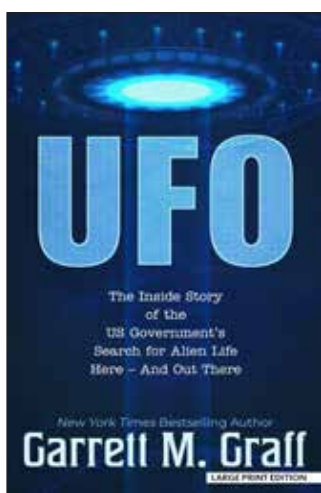

Philip Norman

"Norman knows his subject and the soulful torments Harrison endured. A well-informed biography of an enigmatic musician." — Kirkus Reviews

Despite being hailed as one of the best guitarists of his era, George Harrison battled feelings of inferiority. Compared to John Lennon and Paul McCartney he was considered a minor talent, yet he composed such masterpieces as While My Guitar Gently Weeps and Here Comes the Sun. Unprecedented in scope, this rich biography captures Harrison at his most multi-faceted: devoted friend, loyal son, master guitar player, brilliant songwriter, cocaine addict, serial philanderer, global philanthropist, student of Indian mysticism, self-deprecating comedian, and, ultimately, iconic artist and man beloved by millions.

UFO ★

THE INSIDE STORY OF THE U.S. GOVERNMENT'S SEARCH FOR ALIEN LIFE HERE — AND OUT THERE

Garrett M. Graff

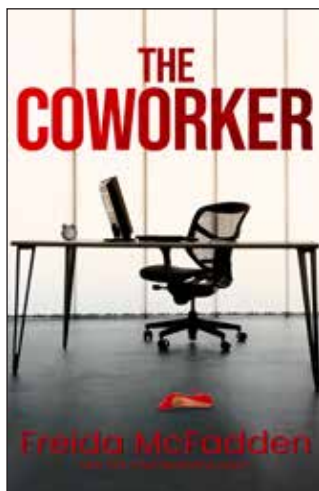

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

"An entertaining tour through the world of flying saucers, aliens, and weird science." — Kirkus Reviews

A thrilling story of science, Nazi research, secret spy planes, and the space race, UFO traces the history of the US government's hunt for "unidentified aerial phenomena" here on Earth, as well as the group of forward-thinking scientists who launched the search for extraterrestrial intelligence far from Earth. Drawing on archival research, declassified documents, and interviews with intelligence and military officials, Graff's book traces our quest to understand one of the most popular questions of all time: whether or not aliens exist.

A Molly Murphy Mystery

Rhys Bowen and Clare BroylesNEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

"Bowen and Broyles, who never disappoint, take a deep dive into the world of early 1900s New York." — Kirkus Reviews

New York, Autumn, 1907. Former private detective Molly Murphy Sullivan and her policeman husband, Daniel, have built a life in Greenwich Village. They value each other's opinions in all things, so when he tells her they're moving to a home on Fifth Avenue — and that he's running for the sheriff of New York — Molly is left reeling. Daniel begs Molly to trust him, but why would he run on the Tammany ticket? A party known more for kickbacks and quid pro quo than anything else, it used to be everything Daniel despised. Molly can't help but wonder what Daniel's got himself tangled up in and whether he needs her help to get out.

THE PREDICTABLE HEARTBREAKS OF IMOGEN FINCH ★

A NOVEL

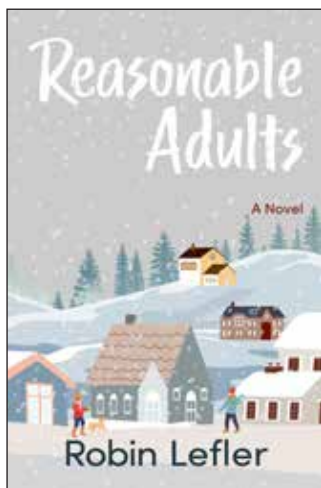

Jacqueline Firkins

"The latest from Firkins is a winning blend of charm, pathos, and sex appeal that's anything but predictable." — Library Journal

Imogen Finch has just been through her seventeenth breakup. She's come to believe a prediction her mother made over twenty years ago: that Imogen would never come first at anything or to anyone. But when Eliot Swift returns to their small town, Imogen has new motivation to try again. He suggests that her curse is breakable. All they need is one win and she can believe in love again. But when victory proves more elusive than Eliot anticipated, Imogen fears she's destined to remain in second place forever. Fortunately for them both, sometimes magic lingers in the most unexpected places. And love is far from predictable.

SMALL TOWN SECRETS

Lillian Duncan

On the surface, Shady Valley looks like the ideal all-American place to live with beautiful flowering trees lining both sides of the street as you enter the picturesque town. But like all small towns, everyone knows everyone, which means everyone knows everyone's business, and not everyone in Shady Valley is what they appear to be. Some have deadly secrets that they hide behind the masks they wear. When Angie McVey disappears on her wedding day, rookie officer Cami Martine is determined to find her best friend. If Cami is to bring her home, she will need to discover the deadly secrets of her friends and neighbors to find the one who wears the biggest mask.

FIVE LITTLE INDIANS

Michelle Good

WINNER: CANADA READS 2022
WINNER: GOVERNOR GENERAL'S LITERARY AWARD FOR FICTION
WINNER: AMAZON FIRST NOVEL AWARD

Taken from their families when they are very small and sent to a remote, church-run residential school, Kenny, Lucy, Clara, Howie, and Maisie are barely out of childhood when they are finally released after years of detention. Alone and without any skills, support, or families, the teens find their way to the seedy and foreign world of Downtown Eastside Vancouver, where they cling together, striving to find a place of safety and belonging in a world that doesn't want them. The paths of the five friends cross and crisscross over the decades as they struggle to come to terms with their past and, ultimately, find a way forward.

"Belly's dawning awareness of her sexuality and that of the boys is a strong theme, as is the sense of summer as a separate and reflective time and place." — Kirkus Reviews

Belly measures her life in summers. Everything good, everything magical happens between the months of June and August. Winters are simply a time to count the weeks until the next summer, a place away from the beach house, away from Susannah, and most importantly, away from Jeremiah and Conrad. They are the boys that Belly has known since her very first summer — they have been her brother figures, her crushes, and everything in between. But one summer, one wonderful and terrible summer, the more everything changes, the more it all ends up just the way it should have been all along.

It used to be that Belly counted the days until summer, until she was back at Cousins Beach with Conrad and Jeremiah. But not this year. Not after Susannah got sick again and Conrad stopped caring. Everything that was right and good has fallen apart, leaving Belly wishing summer would never come. But when Jeremiah calls saying Conrad has disappeared, Belly knows what she must do to make things right again. And it can only happen back at the beach house, the three of them together, the way things used to be. If this summer really and truly is the last summer, it should end the way it started — at Cousins Beach.

Winged beings are meant to be free. And so are artists, but the Cuban government has criminalized any art that doesn't meet their approval. Soleida and her parents protest this injustice with their secret sculpture garden of chained birds. Then a hurricane exposes the illegal art, and her parents are arrested. Soleida escapes to Central America, joining the thousands of Cuban refugees stranded in Costa Rica while seeking asylum elsewhere. There she meets Dariel, a Cuban American boy whose music enchants birds and animals — and Soleida. Together they work to bring attention to the imprisoned artists in Cuba. Soon they discover that love isn't about falling — it's about soaring together to new heights.

"[Alvarez] brings her warmth, sensitivity and eye for detail to a volatile setting — the Dominican Republic of her childhood, during the 1960–1961 attempt to overthrow Trujillo's dictatorship . . . A stirring work of art." — starred, Publishers Weekly

Anita de la Torre never questioned her freedom living in the Dominican Republic. But by her twelfth birthday in 1960, most of her relatives have immigrated to the United States, her Tío Toni has disappeared without a trace, and the government's secret police terrorize her remaining family because of their suspected opposition to Trujillo's iron-fisted rule. Using the strength and courage of her family, Anita must overcome her fears and fly to freedom, leaving all that she once knew behind.

Madrid, 1957. Under the fascist dictatorship of General Francisco Franco, Spain is hiding a dark secret. Meanwhile, tourists and foreign businessmen flood into Spain under the welcoming promise of sunshine and wine. Among them is eighteen-year-old Daniel Matheson, the son of an oil tycoon, who arrives in Madrid with his parents hoping to connect with the country of his mother's birth through the lens of his camera. Photography — and fate — introduce him to Ana, whose family's interweaving obstacles reveal the lingering grasp of the Spanish Civil War — as well as chilling definitions of fortune and fear. Daniel's photographs leave him with uncomfortable questions amidst shadows of danger. He is backed into a corner of difficult decisions to protect those he loves. Lives and hearts collide, revealing an incredibly dark side to the sunny Spanish city.

Sarai is a first-generation Puerto Rican question asker who can see with clarity the truth, pain, and beauty of the world both inside and outside her Bushwick apartment. Together with her older sister, Estrella, she navigates the strain of family traumas and the systemic pressures of toxic masculinity and housing insecurity in a rapidly gentrifying Brooklyn. Sarai questions the society around her, her Boricua identity, and the life she lives with determination and an open heart, learning to celebrate herself in a way that she has long been denied.

YALSA BEST FICTION FOR YOUNG ADULTS

One morning before school, some girl tells Piddy Sanchez that Yaqui Delgado hates her and wants to kick her ass. Piddy doesn't even know who Yaqui is, never mind what she's done to piss her off. Word is that Yaqui thinks Piddy is stuck-up, shakes her stuff when she walks, and isn't Latin enough with her white skin, good grades, and no accent. And Yaqui isn't kidding around, so Piddy better watch her back. At first Piddy is more concerned with trying to find out more about the father she's never met and how to balance honors courses with her weekend job at the neighborhood hair salon. But as the harassment escalates, avoiding Yaqui and her gang starts to take over Piddy's life. Is there any way for Piddy to survive without closing herself off or running away? In an all-too-realistic novel, Meg Medina portrays a sympathetic heroine who is forced to decide who she really is.

“Twists and turns in the plot keep readers guessing until the very end. The story, over-the-top funny, combines Alex Rider’s espionage skills with a huge dose of the sarcasm of Artemis Fowl. Subtle digs at the stuffiness of a federal agency and the romance of spying abound.” — School Library Journal

Ben Ripley may only be in middle school, but he’s already pegged his dream job: CIA or bust. Unfortunately for him, his personality doesn’t exactly scream “secret agent.” In fact, Ben is so awkward, he can barely get to school and back without a mishap. Because of his innate nerdiness, Ben is not surprised when he is recruited for a magnet school with a focus on science — but he’s entirely shocked to discover that the school is actually a front for a junior CIA academy. Could the CIA really want him?

Ever since Ellie wore a whale swimsuit and made a big splash at her fifth birthday party, she's been bullied about her weight. To cope, she tries to live by the Fat Girl Rules — like "no making waves," "avoid eating in public," and "don't move so fast that your body jiggles." And she's found her safe space—her swimming pool — where she feels weightless in a fat-obsessed world. In the water, she can stretch herself out like a starfish and take up all the room she wants. It's also where she can get away from her pushy mom, who thinks criticizing Ellie's weight will motivate her to diet. Fortunately, Ellie has allies in her dad, her therapist, and her new neighbor, Catalina, who loves Ellie for who she is. With this support buoying her, Ellie might finally be able to cast aside the Fat Girl Rules and starfish in real life — by unapologetically being her own fabulous self.

Merci Suárez knew sixth grade would be different, but she had no idea just how different. For starters, Merci has never been like the other kids at her private school in Florida, because she and her brother, Roli, are scholarship students. They don't have a big house or a fancy boat, and they have to do extra community service to make up for their free tuition. So when bossy Edna Santos sets her sights on the new boy who happens to be Merci's assigned Sunshine Buddy, Merci becomes the target of Edna's jealousy. Things aren't going well at home, either: Merci's grandfather has been forgetting important things, falling from his bike, and getting angry over nothing. No one in her family will tell Merci what's going on, so she's left to her own worries, while also feeling all on her own at school.

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

Charles Duhigg blends deep research and his trademark storytelling skills to show how we can all learn to identify and leverage the hidden layers that lurk beneath every conversation. Communication is a superpower and the best communicators understand that whenever we speak, we’re actually participating in one of three conversations: practical (What’s this really about?), emotional (How do we feel?), and social (Who are we?). Supercommunicators know the importance of recognizing and matching each kind of conversation, and how to hear the complex emotions, subtle negotiations, and deeply held beliefs that color what we say and how we listen.

FOURTEEN DAYS

A NOVEL

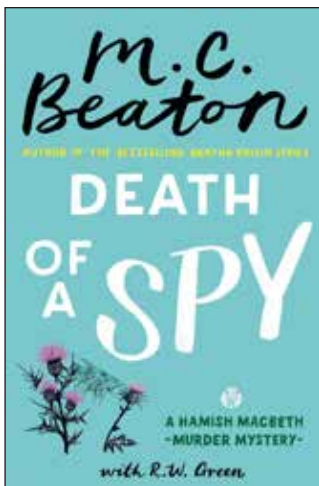

Margaret Atwood, editor

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

One week into the COVID-19 shutdown, tenants of a Lower East Side apartment building in Manhattan have begun to gather on the rooftop and tell stories. With each passing night, more and more neighbors gather, bringing chairs and milk crates and overturned pails. Gradually the tenants — some of whom have barely spoken to each other — become real neighbors. In this Decameron-like serial novel, general editors Margaret Atwood and Douglas Preston and a star-studded list of contributors create a beautiful ode to the people who couldn't escape when the pandemic hit.

DEATH OF A SPY

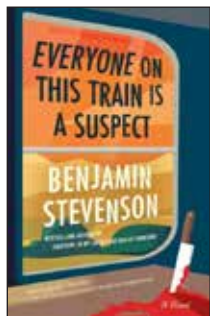

M. C. Beaton with R. W. Green

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

Sergeant Hamish Macbeth is worried about how the locals, as well as those in the wider area of his territory in Sutherland, will react to his new assistant officer, the enigmatic American James Bland, who is on an exchange scheme from Chicago to study policing methods in Scotland. Hamish knows that this is far from the truth. Having recently become involved in identifying a Russian spy ring to solve a murder, he is aware that Bland's mission is to track down the members of the spy network still at large. In the meantime, he and Bland have to contend with the everyday chores of rural policing.

EVERYONE ON THIS TRAIN IS A SUSPECT

A NOVEL

Benjamin Stevenson

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

When the Australian Mystery Writers' Society invited me to their crime-writing festival aboard the Ghan, the famous train between Darwin and Adelaide, I was hoping for some inspiration for my second book. Fiction, this time: I needed a break from real people killing each other. Obviously, that didn't pan out. The program is a who's who of crime writing royalty: the debut writer (me!); the forensic science writer; the blockbuster writer; the legal thriller writer; the literary writer; the psychological suspense writer. But when one of us is murdered, the remaining authors quickly turn into detectives. Together, we should know how to solve a crime. Of course, we should also know how to commit one.

UNTANGLE YOUR EMOTIONS

NAMING WHAT YOU FEEL AND KNOWING WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT

Jennie Allen

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

Many of us need to unlearn damaging messages about our emotions. We've been taught that emotions are untrustworthy, when, in fact, God can use them to help us see where we need His healing. Jennie Allen uses scientific research, biblical insight, and her own story to help you: exchange dismissing or minimizing your emotions for a five-step process to know what you feel and what to do about it; debunk the myth that feelings are sinful by learning how emotional maturity leads to deeper connection with God and others; live emotionally healthy by applying biblical wisdom and therapeutic research; and sit with feelings that are confusing and painful by discovering the depth of God's love and compassion for you.

FANGIRL DOWN

A NOVEL

Big Shots Series • Book 1

Tessa Bailey

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

Wells Whitaker was once golf's hottest star. Now, no matter how badly he plays, a beautiful redhead is always on the sidelines. But when Wells quits and his fangirl finally goes home, he knows he made a huge mistake. Josephine Doyle believed in the gorgeous, grumpy golfer, even when he didn't believe in himself. Yet after he throws in the towel, she begins to wonder if her faith was misplaced. Then a determined Wells shows up at her door with a wild proposal: be his new caddy, help him turn his game around, and split the prize money. As they travel together, sparks fly. Before long, they're inseparable, Wells starts winning again, and Josephine is surprised to find a sweet guy underneath his gruff exterior.

PRIVATE

MISSING PERSONS: A PRIVATE NOVEL

James Patterson with Adam Hamdy

NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLING AUTHOR

A wealthy businessman approaches Jack Morgan, head of Private, the world's largest investigation agency, with a desperate plea to track down his daughter and two grandchildren, who have disappeared. What at first seems to be a simple missing persons case soon escalates into something much more deadly, when Jack discovers the daughter is being pursued by highly trained operatives. As Jack uncovers the woman's backstory, the trail leads towards Afghanistan, where Jack's career as a U.S. Marine ended in catastrophe. Jack will need to face the trauma of his past to save a family's future.
